The case was scheduled to be called at the April term of the Arlington Circuit Court. Before court was convened, Judge Smith received a letter signed "Harry N. Douthitt" which said: "Dear Judge:

STAIN MAY BE CLEW IN COED'S MURDER

Analysis of Marks on Auto of Professor Who Rented Love Nest Likely Today.

"NO RIFT," LAWYER SAYS

Columbus, Ohio, June 17 (U.P.)-The love nest which Prof. James H. Snook, of Ohio State University, maintained for Miss Leora Hix, coed who was fiendishly murdered last week and left on a rifle range near here, was advanced by his attorney tonight as a reason why no suspicion should be attached to him.

Snook and Prof. Marion T. Meyers are held on technical charges of suspicion. Police were conferring tonight and going over evidence to decide whether to prefer specific charges. John M. Seidel, appointed Snook's chief counsel, demanded that a charge be placed against Snook at once or a habeus corpus writ would be sought.

Seidel intimated today that in order to clear himself of suspicion, Snook will plead his love for the slain girl-the quiet girl who, her friends said when her body first was found, did not care more use for the room.

The university's first recognition of the Hix case came today, when it was announced that Snook was dismissed from his veterinary professorship be-cause he admitted association with the murdered medical student. There was one factor in the case today about which police are eagerly curious. Meyers and Snook, apparently warm friends before they were arrested, have become suspicious of each other. Meyers "Shrinks" From Snook.

Meyers said today that he "shrank" from Snook—the 49-year-old, bald, be-spectacled professor of veterinary sur-gery, who was either his rival or his or in the affections of the quiet

At the same time, Snook's attorney quoted him as saying that he believed Meyers might have killed Miss Hix. The lawyer added that Miss Hix once told Snook that Meyers "fell to the floor in a fit" when she refused to marry

"Snook," the lawyer added, "told me at Miss Hix was a darling girl, and desaid many times that she could indle any man."

Polise had said they expected to resee Meyers. They are holding him the present and will question both me and Snook tomorrow.

Both Men Present Alibis.

Meyers' alibi for last Thursday night is that he was with Robert Summerbell, a fraternity brother. Snook's is that he spent the evening at home with his wife and 3-year-old daughter.

It was said at headquarters today that, regardless of any possible connection with the actual murder, detectives believe Meyers "is not telling all he knows."

He and Miss Hix had been sweethearts before Snook and the love nest.

Tomorrow the result of chemical analysis of various stains—like blood-stains—is to be announced. Stains have been found on the doorjamb of Snook's blue Ford coupe. Miss
Hix's hand was crushed as it caught

Others have been found on a knife,

Scattered Keys Are Found.

Detective Lawrence Van Salk found on the rifle range today, near where Miss Hix's body was found, twelve keys, scattered over the ground. Two fitted the door of the apartment which Miss Hix shared with two sisters, fellow students. Another was for a Ford car, a fourth for a safety deposit box. Detectives will try the other keys in various doors tomorrow, particularly doors of places which Bnook said he visited Thursday and Friday.

Altogether, a score of witnesses were questioned at headquarters today. Snook's wife was there, with her little daughter clinging tightly to her hand. Also present was Melvin T. College Buying Staunton Manse Will Make It Shrine in His Memory.

LONG MECCA OF TOURISTS

Staunton, Va., June 17-The house here in which Woodrow Wilson was born has been sold for $30,000. The sale has been ratified by the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church, the house having been the church's manse for nearly four score years. The Rev. Thomas R. Wilson, father of the late President, was pastor of the First Church when his son was born.

Mary Baldwin College, this city, is the new owner of the property, which will be developed as a Woodrow Wilson shrine. In the contemplated changes the manse will be resold to a self-perpetuating board which will have charge of the property.

The fact that Wilson was born in the manse is believed to have added about $10,000 to its value, it being estimated that without its sentimental here in which Woodrow Wilson was estimated that without its sentimental asset the property would not have brought more than $20,000 on the open market. The church will acquire other quarters for its pastor. Sale of the manse has been considered for some years, the pastor and his family having had their home life considerably disturbed by reason of the thousands of tourists who visit Staunton annually and desire to view the room in which Wilson was born and to be shown about the premises.

Had the church desired to advertise widely for bids for the property and allowed it to be purchased by interests that would have capitalized its sentimental value, it is believed that the sale price would have been much estimated that without its sentiment sale price sould have been much larger. As it is, the church and college are almost inseparable institutions, so close, in fact, that until about six weeks ago the pastor of the church was also president of the college.

Expansion of the college to a standard fully-recognized our-year institution, however, made the two offices too

In general, however, Mr. Hoover proposes to get rid of the old Hoover proposes to get rid of the old controversy concerning cruisers by finding a formula. This cruiser rock split the three-power naval conference wide open. Assuming cruisers are to be used for defense only, the President firmly believes that it is unimportant whether the United States, with few naval bases, has 10,000-ton versels with 8-inch while Great Britain prefers smaller craft with 6-inch curs is building eight and has fifteen authorized.

in the mind of Mr. Hoover these figures appear to mean little. Under the cruiser bill he has authority to suspend our building program whenever an international disarmament, agreement is signed. On this point the law is specific, and the authority is not lodged in the President until such an agreement is an accomplished fact. The President will not hesitate to use this authority to stop new American naval construction. The speed with which Gen. Dawes has moved since with which Gen. Dawes has moved since his arrival in England makes it clear that Mr. Hoover is very much in earnest in seeking an agreement for actual reduction. There must be such reduction if we are not to build the fifteen cruisers. The President obviously does not relish building them, hence the vigor of his drive for reduction.

MacDonald Regarded Dubiously. Premier MacDonald's article in yes-terday's London Sunday Times touch-ing upon France's most sensitive point —treaties and minorities—is interesting the French even more than naval disarmament. The treaties and France's championship of frontiers as they now are fixed is considered to be directly attacked, and the fact that MacDonald wrote the article several months ago, as announced today, has not lessened its significance in French eyes. It is taken as a statement of MacDonald's real position and must in consequence affect MacDonald's policies toward the continent.

one of the country's outstanding food scientists and asked him to state the truth about sugar in the diet of athletes.

"Sugar is the fuel of preference in the body," he said. "Within a few minutes after sugar is eaten it becomes available as energy. That is why the football player, the mountain climber, the soldier, or any other person taking constant and strenuous exercise, hungers for sugar and needs sugar in his diet."

This famous food authority went on to say that children also want and need sugar in their diet for the simple reason that the normal child is an athlete. Watch a group of active children, then look at a gymnasium or athletic field full of athletes, and you will notice the similarity.

In addition to furnishing athletes and children the fuel that they can quickly mobilize, sugar also makes all of the other foods they eat tasteful and enjoyable. No athlete and no child can live on fuel alone. They must have roughage foods, vitamine foods and foods rich in mineral salts. Sugar makes all of these health foods delightful to the taste and a joy

That is why sugar is indispensable even to adults who are not athletes. It enables them to eat and enjoy the health-giving foods such as cereals, vegetables and fruits. It is a wellknown fact of human psychology that few people will force themselves to eat foods that they do not like.

Many people, for example, do not enjoy the taste of milk, and yet our bones and teeth demand the calcium and phosphorus that milk supplies so plentifully. The modern intelligent way for all people who do not like the taste of milk is for them to drink cocoa, milk shakes, egg-nogs and such drinks by which means milk becomes a delicious beverage.

Sugar is the perfect energy food and the ideal flavor for nearly all other foods. The Sugar Institute, 129 Front Street, New York.

The commissioner said that sale of illegal beer in the district had increased in recent months and that special agents put into the field to investigate breweries and sale of beer had seized breweries at Troy and Albany on charges of selling beverages of higher alcoholic content than permitted under the Volstead act.

Canfield has been administrator at Albany since January and had served before in the prohibition service. #### A GOOD DAY'S WORK.

By a narrow margin the Senate vesterday defeated the Borah resolution proposing to restrict tariff revision to agricultural and directly related schedules. The finance committee is left free to deal with all aspects of American economic life as affected by the tariff.

Naturally, the day's discussion brought out many statements calculated to make the farmer believe that he will be defrauded if relief is granted to any industry other than agriculture. The chamber resounded with protestations from selfappointed champions of the farmer. Every possible artifice was employed to make a breach between the manufacturing industry and agriculture, and to induce the Republican party to make the fatal mistake of discriminating against one industry for the advantage of the other.

Much was made of President Hoover's position, in an attempt to narrow down the scope of the finance committee's authority to prepare a tariff bill. From the White House came the information that if President Hoover is to affix his signature to a tariff bill it must be considerably less general in scope than the House bill. At the same time, Mr. Hoover has asked for revision of schedules other than agricultural, to the end that Ameriean labor and industry may be protected against insurmountable foreign competition. His position is clear to the public, notwithstanding efforts in the Senate to distort it. The public supports him in demanding tariff revision only in cases where American agriculture, labor and industry are laboring under obvious and crushing disadvantages. There is no demand for wholesale revision upward of the entire tariff. The House bill goes too far, as the violent protest against the unnecessary increase of the sugar tariff clearly reveals.

The Borah resolution, however, would have gone further and much worse in the other direction, by denying to labor and industry the relief that is to be given to agriculture. If Congress had accepted the preposterous Borah resolution several important industries would have been injuriously affected, with possible serious consequences to all branches of industry. The reaction against prosperity in industry would have fallen most heavily, of course, upon agriculture, which is dependent upon the great market created by prosperous industries employing millions of well-paid workers who consume farm products. The Borah resolution, in short, was directed against the welfare of agriculture.

Congress retains freedom of action in regard to the tariff. The schedules can be revised according to the needs of ailing agriculture and sick industries. If the party in power in Congress should attempt to fatten industries that do not need further protection its attempt will not only meet with determined and prolonged opposition, but a veto from President Hoover. The Senate committee on finance has been put on notice to keep in the middle of the road. Such indefensible gouges as the proposed increase in the sugar tariff must be stricken from

Having disposed of the Borah resolution, the Senate proposes to the House that Congress adjourn on Wednesday until August 19. No doubt the House will agree to the resolution. There is no occasion for keeping Congress in session while the Senate committee is laboring upon the tariff bill. A Senate with no business before it is capable of immense political mischief. It is well that publicity-seekers should be denied the limelight for a while. The proposed recess which the national origins provision of the immigration law could be repealed. It will go into effect upon July 1.

POINCARE HOT, POINCARE COLD.

Premier Poincare has contributed an interesting article to foreign affairs in which he points out that the French government has paid debt installments punctually, even before the debt agreements have been ratified. He highly approves the reparation plan worked out by the committee of experts, and insists that immediate approval by all the governments concerned is necessary. He would not waste a moment.

A little of the superfluous haste urged by M. Poincare in regard to reparations might be devoted advantageously to the ratification by France of its debt agreement with the United States. M. Poincare is urgent, not to say impetuous, in asking that all the governments ratify the reparation agreement, but he has been as slow as molasses in January in dealing with the Mellon-Berenger agreement.

The new reparation plan contemplates the ossible cancellation of debts by the United States. Before the United States is asked to commit itself to an implied promise to cancel the debts, would it not be well for France to ratify the agreement to pay what it owes? M. Poincare states that France has not questioned the debts and does not intend to evade them. Therefore there is no apparent reason for delay in ratifying the agreement.

A plea to the United States to ratify the reparation agreement before France ratifies its debt agreement would not tend to increase American good will toward the Poincare government. The warm friendship which M. Poincare desires to foster between the two countries can not last unless it is based upon square dealing. Making all allowances for M. Poincare's first duty in safeguarding France, many Americans believe that he has needlessly incurred injurious criticism by failing to adjust the debt question.

GEN BRAMWELL BOOTH.

Suddenly, but peacefully, Gen. Bramwell Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, died last Sunday. He had been ill for many months. but no immediate concern was felt until just before his death. In his last hour he was attended by his family, which had battled so valiantly for the preservation of his control er the organization founded by his father.

Gen. Bramwell Booth was a remarkable character. Early in life he elected to follow his father's footsteps and, when only a youth, he became the right-hand man of Gen. William Booth. For 56 years he labored unceasingly for the advancement of the army, and until his dying hour he refused to recognize the validity of the deposition imposed upon him by the high commissioners. It seems, however, that the high commissioners must have had knowledge of the fact that Gen. Booth was not as hale as he himself believed.

With the death of Gen. Booth it is to be hoped that the litigation over leadership of the Salvation Army will be brought to a conclusion. His death gives a final excuse for the ending of the Booth dynasty.

CHICAGO AND THE DRAMA.

The citizens of Chicago claim that theirs was the first American city to establish a censorship board for moving pictures, and that the board has been active right along since 1907 in trimming and pruning in the interest of public morals. It now appears that the officials of the Windy City have gone one better by starting an energetic campaign directed to the cleaning up of what sometimes, by a liberal stretch of the imagination, is euphemistically termed the "legitimate"

According to the reports, action looking to the purification of the stage has already begun. One play, described by Corporation Counsel Ettelson as "vile from start to finish," has been driven entirely from the boards, and another, which came under the censorial ban on account of its alleged obscenity and profanity, was ordered to be withdrawn, but is now allowed to proceed after its "book" had been vigorously "edited" by the secretary of the police department. In future, if one is to believe the newspaper reports, everything, from grand opera down, is to be watched and pounced upon at the first offending phrase or

The motives for this display of action are mixed. Not only are the morals of the citizens of Chicago to be protected but also the fair fame of the city itself is to be defended from the aspersions of outsiders. "We'll show them they can't make Chicago the dumping ground for every foul show," said Mr. Ettelson, and, almost in the next breath, he added, "Mind you, we are not prudes. We don't want to try to make things too pure, but they say that Chicago is a crime center and that it's wide open. That isn't true."

Apparently, in their new campaign against indecent plays, the police have on their side both a State law and a city ordinance, and, failing both, they can always ask the mayor to revoke the license of any theater which houses an objectionable show. They would thus seem to have ample authority for the exercise of their discretion.

The outcome of the campaign, which has far-reaching implications, will be watched with interest everywhere.

MR. BRAND'S LITTLE SCHEME.

Not long ago Secretary of the Interior Wilbur announced that he did not favor creation of a Department of Education. Secretary Wilbur is an educator himself, and naturally has a deep interest in this phase of his department's work. He has organized an advisory committee to study the ways in which the Government may foster education throughout the country without further encroaching upon the rights of the States. This committee has begun an intensive study of educational needs and will no doubt have some valuable recommendations to make.

It is to be expected that the committee will be bombarded with suggestions from every person who has a pet scheme for improving American schools. The statement made by Representative Brand, of Ohio, has already illustrated that fact. Mr. Brand is seeking the committee's support for the bill he introwill carry Congress beyond the time in | duced in Congress, which would appropriate | neither question nor quibble.

$200,000,000 for assistance of rural schools. This scheme is in plain opposition to the policy of the administration, which leaves the burden of maintaining schools upon the States. It is hardly conceivable that it will receive the approval of the committee.

Representative Brand notes that rural schools fall far below the standards of the city systems, and that education in sparsely populated districts is much more costly. He observes that the country schools educate thousands of children only to have them migrate to the city to make use of their training. By some feat of the imagination he fixes the responsibility for this upon the Federal Government and asks Uncle Sam to foot the bill to the extent of $100,000,000 per year. His bill calls for this expenditure for only two years, but no doubt it is regarded as a lever that would pry open the Treasury coffers annually thereafter. Mr. Brand would not be so cruel as to expand the facilities of rural schools for two years at the Government's expense and then reduce them to their former

There is no question about the need of American rural school improvement. But the responsibility is one that rests squarely upon the States. If the Government should begin subsidizing rural education, how long would it be before urban schools would demand the same consideration? The situation calls for more equitable distribution of educational funds within each State, and not a new leak in the Federal Treasury. The field of the Government in education is research, the working out of standards, and the exchange of information. Any large appropriation for the benefit of local schools would be an unwarranted invasion of the rights of the States.

PRESIDENTS AND THE PRESS

By THOMAS F. HEALEY. In the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The most dramatic event in Washington newspaper work is the President's press conference. A conference may turn out to be merely routine or it may develop news of world-wide importance. In either event, it is gramatic For there is no more important voice in the world than that of the President of the United States.

The dramatic quality of this meeting will be sensed if, in reading your newspaper's account of the President's doings, you will attempt to visualize the setting.

Mr. Hoover is standing at his desk. A hundred or more correspondents representing the press of the world are standing in a semicircle before him. He makes a statement or expresses an opinion. Within 10 minutes what he had to say is being carried to the four corners of the world. Telephones convey it to the offices of press associations. Telegraph wires carry it to all corners of the Nation. The cables transport it to London. Paris and all other great European centers. For a few moments the executive office of the White House is one of the most important spots on These conferences are held on Tuesdays and Fridays, just as they had been since President Harding revived them eight years ago. It is interesting to contrast the manner in which they are conducted by Mr. Hoover with that of his predecessor, Mr. Coolidge.

The hours of the conferences are noon on Tuesday and 4 o'clock on Friday

With Calvin Coolidge, that meant exactly noon on Tuesday and 4 o'clock on Friday. As soon as the hands of the clock recorded the hour. Pat McKenna, the White House senger, would summon the correspondents. That was Coolidge punctuality, a trait typical of the Vermont Yankee. However busy Mr. Coolidge might be, the press was received exactly on the minute.

It is not always so with Mr. Hoover. There are delays, sometimes of a few minutes and again of many minutes. We have waited 10, 15. 25 minutes.

This lack of punctuality is mentioned to point the difference between Mr. Hoover and his predecessor. No one could complain of it, because the President's minutes are preclous, indeed. It is, however, not the most striking difference in method and character. Mr. Coolidge as President was a conventional person. Mr. Hoover is not. He does not, for instance, wear a silk hat every time he leaves the White House.

Mr. Coolidge's desk always was meticulously tidy. He had no papers, pencils, memoranda or scratch-pads scattered about. Newspapers were arranged in perfect order-on the left. Pencils lay in orderly formation before him. Sartorially, Mr. Coolidge was perfection personified. Always he appeared as if he had just left his dressing room. Somehow he always gave the impression that as soon as we left he was ready to quit work for the day.

With Mr. Hoover we feel that the interview is merely an interlude in a very busy day. His desk is apt to be somewhat cluttered with papers. The telephone is an entirely new feature of the office. Mr. Hoover makes notes on a large pad. When he takes up a pencil, he does not replace it in the orderly row Mr. Coolidge affected.

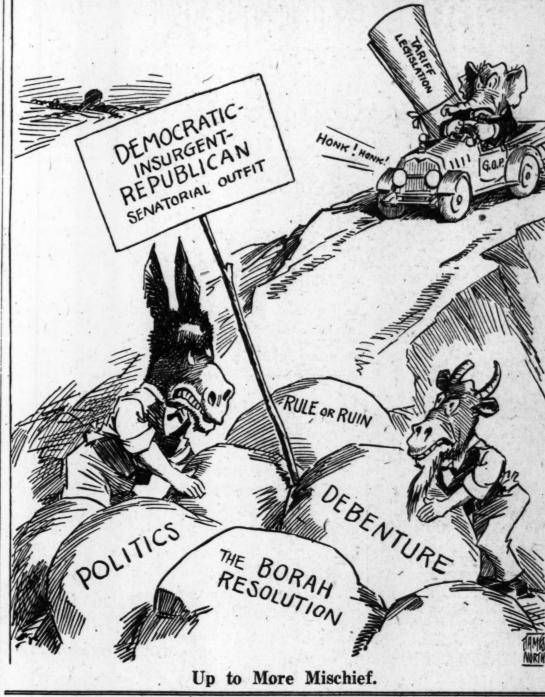

In the matter of clothing, too, he is vastly different in taste. Mr. Hoover wears blue always. Sometimes you feel that he might have given an additional moment to his tie. Sometimes Mr. Hoover is not in his office when we enter. When he is, he is standing, nervously alert for the conference to begin. He nods to newspaper men whom he has known for years. He usually utters some pleasantry.

Mr. Coolidge's conferences were of uniform ength, from 10 to 15 minutes. Mr. Hoover's are apt to run from 30 seconds to 20 or 25 minutes. Mr. Coolidge was painstaking in arswering the least as well as the most important questions. Sometimes he would spoof the writers by discoursing at length on some trivial local happening. Mr. Hoover discusses only important matters.

All of Mr. Coolidge's answers were of one type: They could be used on the responsibility of the writer without direct quotation from the President. Thus was born the "White House Spokesman." Mr. Hoover is more liberal, as the country knows. He is willing to be quoted directly when he sees fit, and he also furnishes "background" information which may be attributed to the White House.

Undoubtedly the Hoover method is the better, for it means that the world is getting definite information directly from the head of the Government about which there can be

Ever since the time of the Norman Conquest it has. I believe, been a world-wide custom to have certain battle flags "richly fringed with gold." The fringe is merely an ornsmental accessory and can not be considered as altering or "changing" the flag itself. Our Government has simply followed this ancient custom, and the fringing of the flags is in accord as quoted by Mrs. Clements.

In heraldry the color yellow is called "or" (gold). In many heraldic designs the actual metal is used. It ces wealth and generosity. The golden fringe on the battle flags would seem to indicate that our sountry is a wealthy and generous Nation, in addition to having the virtues symbolized by the colors of the flag itself. HUGH B. The ladies of the Louise Home have been invited to attend the wedding of its presiding genius, Miss Mary Jane Williams, to Representative Henry St. George Tucker, which will take place on the afternoon of June 26 at the country home of the bride's family near Culpeper, Va., and Representative Tucker has arranged motor tranportation by means of buses for all those who can arrange to attend.

In the fourteen years she has been running the Louise Home, Miss Williams has won a warm place in the affections of the women living there—a group of those who merit the good old-fashloned title "gentlewoman," and who when in gala array, display in some of their "heirlooms" such laces and antique jewelry as are seldem to be found out of museums.

Harry F. Sinclair, multimillionaire oil man, who is serving a three-month sentence in the District Jail for contempt of the Senate, was named defendant in a suit for an accounting instituted yesterday in the District Supreme Court by H. Lealie Parker, of Caspar, Wyo.

Parker claimed a one-eighth interest in a part of Naval Oil Reserve, located in Natrona County, Wyo., which was leased to the Monmouth Oil Co., one of Sinclair's organizations. As a result of the claim, he contended, Sinclair converted to his own use and appropriated approximately $14,000,000 of the company's stock, which Parker alleged was due him.

The court was asked to compel an accounting of all money derived from the lease during the period of operation by the Sinclair company.

The complaint set out the transfer of title to the land from December, 1890, and said in 1917 Parker and Marion N. Wheeler were given valid claim to the one-eighth interest in the reserve. ## Message Mothers Washington

Do you believe that Davey Lee or any member of the famous "Our Gang" has more talent than your child? It is instinctive for children to act. Your child, if given an opportunity, might become famous. The question is, have you the vision to recognize this and act for the best interests of your child?

"Wheezer" was not "lucky" except in the sense that his parents possessed the vision and desire to raise him above the great mass of routine workers.

Mousseline—chiffon in English—explains the lovely gown I have illustrated for you today. Gold and silver paillettes are embroidered to form a small flower design—and note how naively they terminate so that there is an effect of a plain border all around the edges! Ex-chirp from one of our ritzy in-formation bulletins: "Satin covered walls, painted in flower designs, are be-ing initiated by the most progressive interior decorators who believe this type of wall decoration will become

Well. if you ever see any white satin walls, we are going to just know she wears them after all these years. EAN PATOU, the Parisan couturier, is responsible for a new idea in evening dress, which seems to us extremely sensible and practical.

The English Walnut.

I FANCY that one reason the English walnut became popular was because the shells are easy to open. You do not need to "break your teeth" if you haven't a nut-cracker. By pressing two of the nuts together in your hand, you can make one of them your hand, you can make one of them open and you can usually get the nut is the butternut, which is likewise as if you haven't a nut-cracker. By are not so good as English walnuts, pressing two of the nuts together in your hand, you can make one of them open, and you can usually get the nut meat out in "whole halves."

The nuts of the black walnut are not so good as English walnuts, and are much harder to crack.

A close relative of the black walnut is the butternut, which is likewise a forest tree. Some persons call butternut.

One of the record trees for producing English walnuts is in France. It is about 300 years old, and 1,500 pounds of nuts are yielded on the average each year.

An interesting machine has been invented for the placing of trade marks on English walnuts. This machine is in use in the United States, and can print trade marks on 30,000 pounds of walnuts in a day.

From the name, we might suppose that England is the native home of this nut, but that is not the case.
Walnuts were brought to Europe from the Orient, and are native to Persia In fact, they are sometimes called "Persian" instead of "English" walnuts. The name "walnut" arose in England from the Anglo-Saxon word—"wahl," which means "foreign." Thus the Anglo-Saxons said "wahl-nuts" or "foreign nuts," because the nuts were brought to England from foreign countries. When planted in England, however, the walnut trees grew well. In the United States there is a forest

CONVERTIBLES AGAIN LEAD IN BOND BUYING

Few Rails and Industrials Also in Demand as Time Money Eases Further.

FOREIGN LOANS FIRMER

New York, June 17 (A.P.) .- Convertibles and a few rails and industrials attracted most of the attention of today's irregular bond market. Behind the trading was a somewhat better tone induced by the whittling of another quarter of one per cent from the time money rate, bringing the charge down to 8 per cent.

American Telephone convertible 41/28 made a maximum gain of about 2 points as turnover crossed $1,600,000, par value. The bond closed at a net advance of 1%. International Telephone 4½s, which can be exchanged for stock on July 1, mounted 2 points, while Atchison 4½s and New Haven 6s were also strong in the share privelege group. An exception was the Public Service of New Jersey 4½ per cent issue, which dipped 7½ points, a sharp reaction from its high of late last week. Steel obligations showed a mixed thend at moderate turnovers. The Bethlehem 6s and 5½s improved ¾ and ½, respectively, while U.S. Steel 5s held unchanged from Saturday in an active market. Illinois Steel Debenture 4½s met pressure and dropped 1½, while Midvale Steel 5s made a small advance. Rails displayed marked irregularity. changed hands in enormous volume and Midvale Steel 5s made a small advance. Rails displayed marked irregularity. Issues of the Canadian roads worked mostly lower and were joined behind minus signs by the Eries. St. Louis & San Francisco general 5s and 4½s, Seaboard 6s, Missouri Pacific general 4s and St. Paul adjustment 5s. A striking indication of the fundamental thinness of the market, however, was seen in the sale of one Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville refunding 4, a high grade bond and infrequently traded, at a decline of 9½ from the last transaction. Rails making nominal gains included Missouri, Kansas & Texas adjustment 5s, Missouri Pacific refunding 5s, Pennsylvania consolidated 4½s, Western Maryand 4s and Louisville & Nashville 4s.

Announcement that Toho Electric Power Co. was coming into the New York market tomorrow with a loan of more than $11,000,000 short term notes more than $11,000,000 short term notes brought out some inquiry for listed issues of that company, and 7s and 8s moved up fractionally, the former making the best turnover in the fireign list. The trend of foreign obligations generally was upward, although price fluctuations were small.

United States Government issues moved parrowly and mer with little to moved narrowly and met with little in-quiry. Price changes were mostly down-ward.

WINGED FOOT -Ready for Cash-CUSTOMERS

TEW YORK, June 17 .- The management of the Winged Foot Golf Club, the suburban pasturage of the New York A. C., announces that there will be about 400 marshals and a mighty cordon of town constables, dogcatchers and the like from way points along the line of the 5:15 to patrol the premises when the field of about 150 golfers start lacerating the turf ten days hence, in the National open championship.

It looks as though the national open will draw customers in paying quanti-ties this year and the management manifests a familiar desire that a at the Clark Griffith Stadium this aftworking majority of them shall not forget to pay. The price of admission will be $3 per customer per day or $6 per customer for the three days, so, if the marshals, constables and dogcatchers are vigilant and faithful to their trust, the gate receipts probably will amount to something quite

The gross revenue might run as high as $75,000 and this would leave a pleasant margin of profit for the Winged Foot unless, of course, the three-day harrowing of the irons and the hurly-burly of lady addicts on spike heels, rushing hither and yon, should make it necessary to replace the golf course. In that case the $75,would be a fair start toward the $250,000 that a new set of golfing alleys would cost in the open market.

ALMOST THE -Least Valuable-NAKED TRUTH -By JAMES S. COLLINS-

TEW YORK, June 17 (N.Y.W.N.S.) N'I," said Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Robins, to-day, "have seen some pretty bad ball players in my time, but—" players in my time, but—"
"You certainly have, Robbie," piped Louis Mann from the depths of the horse collar he always wears. "In fact, you've got some on your own club."
Mr. Robinson ignored the interruption.

"But that fellow Georgie Price there is the worst it has ever been my misfortune to look at," he continued. "I hereby nominate him as the least valuable player of the year."

This harsh appraisal was made as Messrs. Robinson, Mann and other Messrs. Robinson, Mann and other sports personages were gazing at an alleged ball game between a team of baseball writers, modestly styled "experts," and a team composed of friars. Col. Jacob Ruppert donated the use of the Yankee Stadium for the staging of the spectacle, which is just what it was. Harry Stevens supplied the refreshments, which came in for some taxific attention senseally from the terrific attention, especially from the actors, some of whom have been at liberty for some little time. Well. All Present Agree.

Police Commissioner Whalen, pinch-hitting for another "expert," surprised everybody, including himself, by bangeverybody, including himself, by bang-ing out a hit. After the long and arduous trip around the bases he re-tired at once to the showers, content to rest on his laurels. Miller Huggins, Dazzy Vance and Maj. Fleming and Capt. Biff Jones, who, with Robinson and Mann, occupied a special box, unanimously agreed that the commis-sioner wore nis uniform well. Owing to the fact that the official scorer, convinced in the first inning that the Actors were never going to get any one out, abandoned his job, there was some disputation as to the score, the Experts claiming a 40-to-1 victory. The game lasted but two innings, all hands, including the spectators, being n a state of exhaustion at that point. Many sports followers harbor the deusion that the coxswain of a crew has a pretty soft snap. True, there is nothing backbreaking about handling a tiller and barking through a megaphone but the job demands an eternal alertness that is nerve-wracking. Nor does the coxswain escape the rigors of hard

Triumph Over War White Poloists

Fort Myer Scores 10-8 Victory in Finals Over Series.

McClure and Benson Lead in Winners' Fast Attack.

HE Sixteenth Field Artillery Polo Team won the intracircuit tourney title yesterday by defeating the Department Whites in a stirring 10-to-8 battle. The Whites were given one-goal handicap and they were unable to take advantage of it, so strongly did the Artillery players fight.

The game was the most interesting and closest one of the tournament this son. Spectacular shots kept the fans on edge. Lieut. McClure and Lieut. Benson were the outstanding scorers for the winning team, the first named coring four goals and the latter, three.
Maj, Chaffee and Maj. Hoyle did all of the scoring for the War Whites, Chaftee with four goals and Hoyle with fee with four goals and Hoyle with three.

The Sixteenth Field Artillery got a three-goal lead at the outset, erasing the handicap for the War Whites, by scoring two goals in the first chukker and one in the second before the War Whites could come through with a marker. Maj. Chaffee counted two for the Whites to open their scoring in the third chukker while he scored the next goal for his team which came in the fourth chukker. ourth chukker.

Lieut McClure and Lieut. Benson divided the work for the Artillery up to this time, the former shooting two of the first three goals and Benson one. The fourth chukker saw the Artillery Team surge ahead led by the McClure-Benson combination, while aid was received from Maj. Parker, who came through with two goals. In the fourth chukker, the Artillery Team counted three times, while they scored twice more in each the sixth and seventh chukkers for their 10 points of the game.

chukkers for their 10 points of the game.

The Whites fought stubbornly after getting their three goals in the third and fourth chukkers, but they were never able to quite match the pace set by their opponents. They scored one more goal in the fifth chukker, two in the sixth and one in the seventh before calling it a day. Neither team was able to score in the last chukker. There will be a game between the Third Cavalry and Fort Benning Teams tomorrow for the invitation tournament championship. The winner will receive the Infantry Cup.

OLLYER'S COMMENT On the SPORT of KINGS

OLT lightning. Yep, and the name is none other than REPUBLIC and he goes for all the kale down at Latonia this afternoon. Personally we have a rooting interest because "Wee Frankie" and "Polk" are shooting from taw and that is quite sufficient to make us rise up on our hind heels. Better go along with these boys. SCOTT, a maiden, which has been showing splendid work of late, was also the medium of some overnight play. You have the info for what it is Another wopsy tiger from these same diggings is ROYAL SON, which is slated to bear colors in the closing spasm. The one to trim is VANDAL which showed a real smart effort last time, finishing a close up second. BILLIE LEONARD and KENTUCKY ACE for what is left.

BETTYAN and PRINCE CAROLYN. This way rigged and the drying out track, I am stringing with the "PRINCESS." If she don't win, come take my watch. Down at Fairmont, I have the gladsome tidings today—"FRANK HAWLEY as far as you can throw a rock." Now, these folks are a heap sight better than green hands and the kale is planted in China. PATON and BOTCH for what

The Janney-Blow game was a pitchers' battle from start to finish with Studds and Dorr, the principals. Although Studds allowed only four hits to ten off Dorr, the latter had the advantage at ten to seven in strikeouts and showed his courage by stopping a number of Janney railies.

The Janneys stepped out to a three-run lead in the first inning but Blow held a 5-4 advantage when the sixth inning rolled around. Janneys tied the score in this frame and both teams were scoreless until the twelfth decided the issue. Studds and Gray led the hitters with three safeties each.

Wheatley surprised by starting March on the hill instead of Daniels, who has pitched most of their series victories. March had the edge on Mahoney, of Monroe, who was essaying to make it two straight over Wheatley. Neither team could get more than a one-run advantage until the eighth when Wheatley made the last score of the name. Mahoney hit a homer and Henring a triple for Monroe. RALLYING to sweep five games in the third set after being at a 4—1 disadvantage, Miss Phoebe Moorhead defeated Miss Josephine Dunham for the singles championship of the Women's District Tennis League yesterday on the Columbia Country Club Courts. The scores were 6—3—6.6—4.

Some of the best tennis seen in women's circles here this season was flashed by the finalists. They appeared evenly matched in most departments. Miss Moorhead's greater speed, however, was outstanding and this proved a decisive factor in her favor when her opponent threatened to take the match during the final set.

Long rallies, accurate placements, deep driving and hard smashing at the net all helped to make the match interesting to the large gallery present. At the net, the champion was steadier, successfully returning her opponent's thrusts and benefiting on errors.

The clerk made some appropriate suggestion, but the viscount paid no attention. He broke out suddenly. "I say! Would it be considered very odd if I engaged a Chinaman."

The old detective had not troubled to disguise himself and thus it happened that the manager, Mr. Norton, recognized him at once. He explained his case to him and the manager listened with interest.

"There is certainly something strange about Mrs. Fairchild," he said. "She is very eccentric. She is in the habit of going out disguised as a servant. We have seen her leave the hotel so disguised many a time."

Both Mrs. Fairchild and her friend appeared at dinner attired in elaborate tollettes. They attracted considerable attention. They retired to their rooms immediately after the meal was over. Old King Brady went on duty again and at last near midnight his vigil was rewarded. The door opposite opened and a tall woman dressed as a servant came out. He followed her closely out the hotel and down the street in the direction of the Chinese residence section. She slipped into a Chinese grocery and provision store.

GIRL AND $2,000 SAVED

Buffalo, N. Y., June 17 (A.P.).—One man was shot to death, snother was wounded and a third arrested today as police frustrated an attempt to hold up a girl cashier of a department store in South Buffalo.

Acting on information, a police squad in charge of Detective Chief

John G. Reville, ambushed the bandits on Seneca street, just as they were about to accost Miss Dorothy Harris, 23, who was carrying about $2,000 from the Jahraus-Braun Department Store to the Southside branch of the Liberty Bank.

The dead man was unidentified.

The wounded man is Edward Clark, alias Edward Hoffman, who while serving eighteen years for robbing a mail truck here, escaped from Auburn Prison on May 28, 1928. The man under the control of arrest, now being held under guard at an outlying station, is Joseph Bart-koik, 38, of Buffalo, recently released from Auburn Prison, where he served from Auburn Prison, where he served a term for manslaughter.
The girl, unaware of the plot, grew terrified when she saw three men approaching and started to walk back toward the store.

As the three robbers pursued her, the policemen closed in on them and in the resultant chase one man was shot through the forehead. He died at a hospital

The police took the driver to jail and when they made inquiries found that his auto was one which had been reported stolen only a few hours previously, and the police allege it was Moncorger who stole it. Then the police officer was sent to take a statement from the victim of the accident. The medicos deciared the man's condition was grave, but he himself claimed he was not hurt at all. This made the policeman suspicious and when he inquired into the man's past found ne was actually sought as an escaped criminal.
